

CATASTROPHE MODELLING

In recent years, there has been an increase in the number and use of simulation packages for the purposes of modelling catastrophe exposures and costs arising from natural perils.

The workshop will provided a demonstration of the use of these models, showing the data inputs required and the types of output available. Two models will be shown, one based on UK exposures and one on US exposures.