432

NOTES ON THE JOURNAL OF THE INSTITUTE OF ACTUARIES

Vol. 92, Part I.   No. 391 (1966)

The Elderton Room, p. 1.

Continuous Mortality Investigation, pp. 2-13.   (The reports appearing in T.F.A. vol. 29, pp. 237-250.)
Abstract of the Discussion on the preceding and on the previous three reports (appearing in T.F.A. vol. 29, pp. 219-232), pp. 14-26.

Preston, T. W. and Clarke, R. D.   An Investigation into the Mortality of Impaired Lives during the Period 1947-63, pp. 27-74.   (The paper appearing in T.F.A. vol. 29, pp. 251-315.)

Skerman, R. S.   A Solvency Standard for Life Assurance Business, pp. 75-84. The note points out that it would be advantageous if one solvency standard were accepted internationally and enunciates five principles on which it is considered a practicable standard could be based.

Institute of Actuaries of Australia and New Zealand.   Report on the Convention held in Canberra, October 1965, pp. 85-87.

The British Association for the Advancement of Science.   Report on the Cambridge Meeting, pp. 88-90.

World Population Conference, Belgrade, 1965.   Report, pp. 91-96.

Pain, R. H.   Notes on the F.T.—Actuaries Index, pp. 97-98.   The notes deal with the continuous review of constituents and with changes in procedures during 1965.

Reviews, pp. 111-115 :

Actuarial Practice of Life Assurance.   By H. F. Fisher and J. Young.
Actuarial Aspects of Pension Security.   By William F. Marples.
The Aged in the Welfare State.   By Peter Townsend and Dorothy Wedderburn.
Mathematical Theory of Probability and Statistics.   By R. von Mises ; edited by Hilda Geiringer.