

EU Referendum

Roundup, week 26

Wednesday 22 June 2016

Institute and Faculty of Actuaries

Past week's events

Mon 20 June	ComRes poll for the Independent shows that 44% would be 'delighted' if UK votes for Brexit – 28% feel same way about Remain
	Matthew Anderson, Member of the Advisory Group - Scotland Stronger in Europe , and who was a panel member at our IFoA Scottish event, wrote in the Scotland Herald: "I recently debated at an Actuaries business event in Edinburgh. The debate was entitled "EU Referendum: Risk and Uncertainty". Those words - risk and uncertainty - sum up the challenge of leaving the European Union and maintaining economic success."
	This note by Chris Hanretty and the EU Electoral Commission explains what will likely happen on polling day, including a timeline of developments during the night
	George Soros warns about the volatility of the Pound
Tue 21 June	Bookmaker's odds are: 1 / 4 Remain and 3 / 1 Leave. This would mean betting £10 pounds on remain will return £12.50 in case Remain wins, or getting £40.- return if Leave wins
	US Fed Chair Janet Yellen says EU referendum result could sway decision on US interest rates: a UK vote to leave the EU could have 'significant economic repercussions', including on the US's financial outlook
	JPMorgan says EU referendum too close to call
	Economywatch looks at the possible impacts for other geographical regions of a possible brexit
	Pound soared to its biggest one-day gain for more than seven years yesterday and the FTSE 100 rallied as volatile swings in financial markets continued ahead of Thursday's EU referendum
Wed 22 June	The Electoral Commission says that the UK has 46.5 million electorate for EU referendum :
	Bookmaker's odds are: 5 / 19 Remain and 3 / 1 Leave . This would mean betting £10 pounds on remain will return £12.63 in case Remain wins, or getting £40.- return if Leave wins
	POLLING An ORB poll for the Telegraph yesterday gave Remain a seven point lead, whilst Opinium for the Observer has both remain and leave on 44 per cent. YouGov for ITV has Leave on a two point lead. There was speculation yesterday that Downing Street had received private polling indicating a Leave win when the PM spoke at a hastily-arranged press conference outside Number 10 to plead with older voters to back Remain for the sake of their children and grandchildren. Final polls from ComRes, YouGov and Opinium will be released today with an Ipsos Mori poll tomorrow morning.
	Michael Gove says he is sorry for comparing EU referendum experts and economists to Nazis
Thu 23 June	Polling day
Fri 24 June

Upcoming events

22 June	At 9pm Jeremy Paxman chairs the final debate with Alan Johnson and Nigel Farage
23 June	EU Referendum date
27-28 June	EU Summit