'Task Specification'

Background

The IFoA is the UK's only chartered professional body dedicated to educating, developing and regulating actuaries based around the globe. We have a worldwide membership of over 30,000 of which over 50% are student members. 47% of our membership and 64% of our students are based outside the UK, reflecting the increasingly global nature of actuarial practice.

Our Council sets the IFoA's strategy, with Executive staff responsible for its execution. The Lifelong Learning Board is responsible for the oversight of delivery of specific aspects of this strategy related to the pre-qualification education of actuaries, and their continuing professional development and lifelong learning. The Board delegates the operational aspects of the pre-qualification processes to the Education Committee to oversee.

The International Representative will be expected to:

- offer suggestions to aid Education Committee to consider a global approach when discussing or making decisions on pre-qualification education of actuaries
- challenge Education Committee to enable the IFoA pre-qualification process is relevant to the global market
- communicate, on request, with the IFoA Global Student Consultative Forum
- participate in ad-hoc task and finish groups as detailed by the Chair
- where applicable, provide country best practice exemplars to IFoA Executive staff
- understand and adhere to good governance.

Tenure

The International Rep will be appointed for a period of three years.

Time commitment

The Education Committee meets five times each year for half a day and participation will be via face to face meeting in London, by telephone or video conference call. The timings of the meetings are arranged to be sympathetic to the times zones of any international members.

In addition to these meeting there will be follow up actions and communications between meetings by email and telephone.

The total annual time commitment is around 60 hours.
